

IRISH COUNTIES PICK HOME RULE

Northernmost County of Donegal Is By Freak, Included With the Southern Group.

DUBLIN, April 22.—Official lists of candidates for the north of Ireland parliament, which has been created by the Irish Act, put into operation April 19, have been completed. There are 42 Unionist, 14 Nationalist and 19 Sinn Féin candidates for the 52 seats. Joseph Devlin has been chosen for the West Belfast—county Antrim—county Armagh constituency but in the event of his election he is pledged to ignore the summons to attend meetings.

It may sound contradictory, but Donegal, the most northern county of Ireland has been the first to select a candidate for the south of Ireland parliament. He is Major R. L. Moore, master of the Londonderry Orangemen and he is the Unionist nominee.

The seeming singularity of the situation, is explained by the fact that Donegal, although its borders extend farther north than those of any other Irish county, is not included among the six counties named by the home rule act to make up what is known as "northern Ireland," which elects a separate parliament. These six counties are Antrim, Armagh, Down, Fermanagh, Londonderry and Tyrone, with the boroughs of Belfast and Londonderry. Donegal thus is left for inclusion, form governmental purposes, with the southern group of counties.

CARRIES PARTNER'S BODY ON BOARD STRAPPED TO BACK BRITAIN WITHDRAWS ITS BAN ON TWO BIG RACE EVENTS

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., April 22.—Thomas Barker left yesterday for Grand Rapids, Michigan with the body of his partner and brother-in-law, Ward E. Brown, who died on April 6, near Clearwater Lake, 150 miles north of Sioux Lookout, Ont.

Brown's last request was that his body be taken back to civilization and buried beside that of his wife.

Barker strapped the body on a board and started south, covering the distance by canoe, dog team and toboggan in twelve days. He arrived here Wednesday. Brown and Barker were with the American forces overseas. They were in the far north to prospect for gold.

LONDON, April 22.—The government has withdrawn its ban on racing so far as the two thousand guinea stakes are concerned. Both races will run at Newmarket on Friday, April 23. The government had placed a ban on racing because of the coal strike, but was asked to consent to the two stake events being run off because of their importance to breeders of blooded stock.

HIGHLY ELATED OVER DAUGHTER'S RECOVERY

"I Honestly Believe Tanlac Saved Aletha's Life," Says Mrs. Cook—Whole Family Takes It With Wonderful Results.

"I honestly believe Tanlac has saved my daughter Aletha's life, and besides relieving her troubles, it has built her up thirty-three pounds in weight, and I just know it's the grandest medicine in the world," was the remarkable statement made by Mrs. Frances M. Cook, of 404 East Pine St., Olean, N. Y.

Miss Cook is a popular member of the younger set in Olean, and has lived in the city for four years, coming to Olean from Wellsville, her former home, where she also has a host of friends.

"For the past year Aletha suffered almost continually with attacks of what was pronounced appendicitis. Many times she was in bed for as long as two weeks at a time suffering with these awful cutting pains in her side. She lost weight until she was almost a living skeleton and was so weak she could hardly stand up. At times it seemed that she would go frantically nervousness and nights she scarcely closed her eyes at all. We were finally told that everything had been done for her that could be except an operation. But we had such a dread of the operating table and the knife that we just could not make up our minds for her to undergo such a terrible ordeal, and I was so worried over her condition I could hardly sleep, and often just couldn't keep from crying because of the way she had to suffer. She lost her appetite completely, and it seemed that she was hardly eating enough to nourish a baby.

"Well, it seemed that everybody was praising Tanlac, so I decided to get her a bottle and after taking two bottles I noticed a big improvement in her condition. She has taken five bottles now and hasn't had a touch of that pain in her side in six weeks. In fact I don't believe there's a healthier girl in Olean, and her appetite is so good she can hardly eat enough to satisfy it. We're all using Tanlac at my house now and it's done so much good we just can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Corning by Terbell-Calkins Drug Co., and in Woodhull, N. Y. by Frank S. Park.—Adv.

HERRICK GLAD TO GO TO PARIS
But He Would Not Accept Post Until Assured America Would Support France.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
Washington.—Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, for the second time probably will be the ambassador of the United States to France. Frenchmen, official and non-official, have expressed their entire satisfaction with the appointment. There are some curious circumstances connected with the preliminaries of the designation of Mr. Herrick for the position which he held once before.

It was on the day that the United States declared it must stand with the allies on the question of the amount of the German indemnity that Mr. Herrick accepted President Harding's offer to make him the ambassador to France. There is a close connection between these two facts; at least I think I can say so without much repudiation lest somebody enter denial. I think it is safe further to add that if the United States had not sent its note to Germany more than intimating that she must pay indemnity to the full limit of her ability, Myron T. Herrick would have declined to go to France as ambassador.

Was the First Choice.
When Warren G. Harding was elected President, the forecasters of appointments under the new administration said that Mr. Herrick, a fellow Ohioan of the President, certainly would go to France, where once he had served as an appointee of Mr. Taft, another Ohioan. Mr. Herrick had several conferences with the President-elect and it would have been interesting at the time if one could have found out what they were talking about. Today it is pretty generally known that their talks had to do with Mr. Herrick's disinclination to go to France unless the United States, by generous action toward the sister republic, intended to make his way possible with the French people.

After one or two of these conferences between the President-elect and Mr. Herrick, fairly definite statement was made that the latter thought he could not take the position of ambassador which it was said had been offered to him. All over the country the apparent situation was accepted as a fact and the people generally, and the politicians with them, took Mr. Herrick out of their book of ambassadorial probabilities.

Finally, however, Mr. Herrick had several more conferences with Mr. Harding and the situation changed again. As soon as former Premier Viviani, envoy extraordinary of the French people, came to the United States, the stock of Mr. Herrick as a probable appointee to the French post went soaring. It went up in company with the reports that this government was to satisfy Viviani and his country as to its intentions in the matter of moral support in securing the payment of the German indemnity.

He Stood by France.
I have not the faintest doubt that Mr. Herrick's final acceptance of the French post can be put down as due to the fact that he learned that it was not the intention of his government to desert France in its need. His acceptance of the French mission was given virtually simultaneously with the announcement of the State department that in the matter of the German indemnity this government must

MAY DAY RIOTS LOOM IN MEXICO
President Obregon, However, Has No Fear of Any Serious Radical Disorders.

MEXICO CITY, April 22.—Elaborate preparations for May Day demonstrations throughout Mexico are being made by radical elements here, and in some quarters there is apprehension that the observance of the day may lead to disorders.

Government authorities have been amply informed as to the plans being formulated, however, and, while inclined to look on the demonstrations as mere outlets for radical enthusiasm, they are prepared to meet any emergency. President Obregon has stated he does not consider present radical activities in the light of being a menace to the peace of the country.
